

The red bird flutters into the pane,
falls into the bush
and tries again.

It must remember the egg.
Persistence worked then—
why not now?

It is only air in a frame,
leading to the unknown pleasures of the house.